LOVE IT so far. I haven't spent very much time in it yet but I got through the interactive tutorials and played around with it a little bit. Seems to be a very accurate re-creation of CDJ's. I'll update my review once I've spent more time in this, but since this is a new game without too many reviews I want to support the developers by giving some positive feedback right now. Feedback for the developers: One feature I'd like to see added is custom avatars. I want to model my own DJ head and use it in-game for live streams. Viewers don't have any connection with a generic floating head. Public and private avatars could be used, similar to VR Chat. Another feature that would be great is custom maps (or rather stages). The Steam workshop could certainly be leveraged for this. If you're wondering about handling workshop content with Unreal, you may want to speak to the devs at Pavlov VR, who've done quite a good job with it using Unreal Engine.. great bit of kit.. This is one of the apps that makes VR worth it. Good haptics combined with switches and sliders that snap into position mean that you won't have to screw around with janky buttons. I've been watching this for weeks on twitch and there's some wizard things you can do with it. After going through the tutorial (hopefully they make that a little more robust and interactive), I know this is going to be my new obsession.. So Guys i renew my review. / Little ryme there. So i downloaded the app after it was on my Startpage after i played Electronauts a while ago. Instant Love here. Got in it was like i was home. It is the best DJ VR App out there. Why you ask? Simple! You can: - Import you own Music simple as that. - If you are livestreaming you can add Gifs and Emotes to the Game. - Stream Viewers can request Music. - You can have DJ Tutorial and Training Lessons. - The Community is awesome and full of love and passion. Guys you need to understand Tribe is not just a Game. It is a Family, we all help, understand, teach and love each other. We are all Musicians, Producers, DJ or involved some sort or another. So if you want to learn DJ or get into Producing or Music in general, buy it you wont be dissappointed.. LOVE IT so far. Best VR App Available When i say Best APP i mean just that, i would not put this in the game category, it is an app, with huge potential. whether youre a DJ or not, everyone will benefit from this, the dev is sounding like this could rival 99% of pc DJ/Mixing app available, and even has the potential to rival actual decks and mixers, i have only been using this app for just over a week and i can already feel myself getting better at mixing. the discord is full of friendly helpful people, all with the same interest.GREAT MUSIC, and a GREAT EXPERIENCE.. I have been buying vinyl since the 80s and always wanted to try DJ'ing. As a VR super-enthusiast when this finally became available on the Steam store I bought it without hesitation. The devs and community on disocrd are super helpful and supportive and it has alot of integrated features to support streamers, including in-progress LIV support. I wanted to learn how to scratch, which you can do, but they said they are working on improving scratching, among other things. A+ would recommend.. Ive always been obsessed with various forms of electronic music. Even more interested in the DJs who play the music in clubs, festivals, and stuff. Always captivated by the sights and sounds always wondering if I could do that. Could I hold a crowd? Tribe XR and their awesome team has helped me feel comfortable trying it. They can do the same for you. Load up your tracks and have fun. Its easier than you think the to get basics down and this app will help you do it with equipment that would normally cost you thousands. You cant go wrong with Tribe XR. I mean, unless you dont like fun. You arent that guy are you? Dont be that guy. I will be buying copies to gift on my VR streams. Ive never had so much fun. Its completely taken over my Twitch channel.

You can use the sync button to turn on or off the sync function. In the upcoming release, well implement the features for automatically switching the master based on how you interact with the decks.. Tribe 0.08.3 - Release Notes : New Features Skins - Click the paintbrush icon in the main menu home bar to view the skins menu, where you can select skins for your DJ equipment and different avatars. ---

Fixed a crash from trying to beatmatch to songs that failed to analyze. Achievements - Fixed the achievement that tracks the amount of time you spend mixing. - Added a new achievement that tracks the total amount of time you stream. - Fixed an issue with the longest continuous stream achievement.. Tribe 0.08.1 - Release Notes : New Features: * Added a achievements menu/progress tracker to help you set goals in Tribe and keep track of your DJ and streaming progress. Integration with Steam achievements will come soon. * The track browser has a new menu accessible by clicking the "." in the top right. From it you can: 1. Analyze all tracks within the current folder and optionally subfolders. During analysis a button will appear at the bottom of the track browser showing how many tracks are still queued to be analyzed, and you can click it to cancel analysis early. Up to 8 tracks are analyzed at a time so you will likely see a large performance drop during analysis, it's mostly intended that you start analysis and don't bother DJing while it's running (though you definitely still can if your computer is good enough). 2. View a track history, which displays all the tracks played in the current session in order. Played track are now marked green in the track browser too. 3. Export your track history to a json file. These files can be found in [Documents]/TribeXR/Playlists/. The history from your last session will also be autosaved to this folder, though it is overwritten by later sessions so you'll want to manually export if you want to keep the playlists (you can also rename the autosave file after shutting down tribe if you want to keep it). 4. View playlists. For now playlists are automatically imported from all of the track history files you have in the playlists folder. In the future there will be easier ways to create playlists, but for now the only way that doesn't involve manually writing your own json file is to play all the tracks you want in the playlist and then export your history. Once you've exported a track history you can open its json file and change the name field at the top to whatever you want to have it appear with that name in the playlists view in Tribe. * Gif beatmatching. When enabled in the Twitch menu (tick the checkbox on) gifs will automatically match their loop rate to the beat grid of the current song. Fixes/Improvements: * Menu lasers no longer appear on spectator cams. * Multiplayer sessions now allow up to 16 players (up from 4). You may start seeing network issues at very high player counts, this change is intended to support users who can host with strong internet connections. * Guests now connect to the same Twitch channel as the host so anyone joining your stream can see the same chat/gifs/etc. * Increased the range of table height adjustment. * Weve integrated support for the LIV mixed reality plugin..
